TNOR this is a point, that integrity of states does not lie in size alone. And although Goa is a small state existing upon the vast Indian submembers of the armed forces continent, by culture, creed would be evacuated, and they and custom, its traditions would be followed by all who expressed the wish to leave, vary from that of India. whether they were Portuguese Four hundred years of by birth or nationals of "the Christianity beginning with Portuguese State in India." the great missionary. Nehru says that "we can discuss legalities or moralities later on, but the physical handing over has to take place" but these do not sound much like the sentiments of a man of peace. Indeed they smack of intolerance and dictatorship. Nehru has long stood before the world as a champion of the rights of ! suppressed peoples. TOUNDAMENTAL to the problem of Goa's existence is that it is a Portuguese possession. And as the world is aware, it is difficult always to justify Portugal's manner when it comes to negotiating disputes arising from her colonial possessions. However, there are grounds for negotiation, and it is to be hoped that both Lisbon authorities and Mr Nehru will examine them carefully.

These premises are what Mr Nehru would accept himself. A minority has the right to exist. It has the right to preserve its creeds and customs so long as they do not physically impair the existence of its neighbours. Might has no rights when civilised ethics are in question. All the world hopes that Mr Nehra will negotiate in the spirit he has vaunted and that he will find in peaceful solution to this admittedly difficult question.

MILITARY LAUNCH TO ESCAPE

Macao, Dec. 13. Sentrics at Macao's Government House on the city's Praia Grande looked astonished early this morning when a Communist Chinese military launch sailed into harbour and anchored some 900 hundred yards away. The launch disgorged a total of 83 men, women and children who walked ashore across muddy seabed exposed by the low tide, and told an amazing story of stealing the launch to escape from China. The vessel—remained at anchor just opposite the Macao Inn, while waterfront police took the refugees to headquarters under escort -Our Own Correspondent.

Looting at Leper Fair

Reports of looting by organised bonds at the close of the Christmas Fair organised by the Marianne Reichl Aid to Lepers' Group on Saturday were made at the general meeting this morning. Mrs J. W. Devonshire, Chairman, deplored the work of a gang of hooligans that made the last hour of the Fair a very unpleasant business. Mrs Devonshire said that on Saturday night she had written to the Commissioner of Police thanking the Hongkong Police Force for assistance, particularly during the morning at the time of Lady Black's visit, and asking for advice to prevent any such incidents again, for they completely spoiled the end of the day.

Mrs H. Sidbury said that not only were articles taken from stalls but the stalls themselves were damaged, parts were taken away and - personal belongings of stall-holders were stelen. There was not enough protection to cope with the intruders.

Mrs Devonshire congratulated the many helpers on the tam's decision to defer delivery magnificent result of "well over The China Mail will publish of 24 1,000-pound bombs to the $100.000 raised to help the Tessa Corkill's story on a date U.N. force in the Congo.-Reu- patients of the Hay Ling Chau Leprosarium."

New York sugar market

New York, Dec. 12. World No 9 sugar futures today closed unchanged to four points lower with sales of five contracts.

World No 8 sugar futures closed three to six points lower with sales of 376 contracts. World contracts were bearishly dominated by indications of break-up in the international conference at Geneva without reaching a compromise Cuba's demand for a substantial increase in the island's export

Traders were fearful that the international body would be unable to function as a price stabilising factor, without world quots arrangement to regulate exports of producing

Domestic contracts strengthened independently in company with the higher raw market—

PRINCESS WITHOUT A FORK

On her tour of the Far East, Princess Alexandra went through a gamut of new experiences — walking through temples and pagodas in her bare feet, eating with chopsticks in Hongkong (right) and, in the picture below, having a meal Arab-style, with fingers replacing a fork. •

The latter would never do in Kensington Palace, but it is the correct thing in Arabia.— London Express Photo.

reject African dance show

London, Dec. 12. Four of Britain's independent television companies decided today there is "too much erotic symbolism" in a performance of the African state dancers of Senegal.

The Senegal show, a filmed vecsion of the widely acclaimed 'Rhythms of Africa,' will not be seen on many screens

But viewer in the Manchester region may see it. The Granada Television Company, which serves the Manchester area, will give the presentation full and uncensored treatment

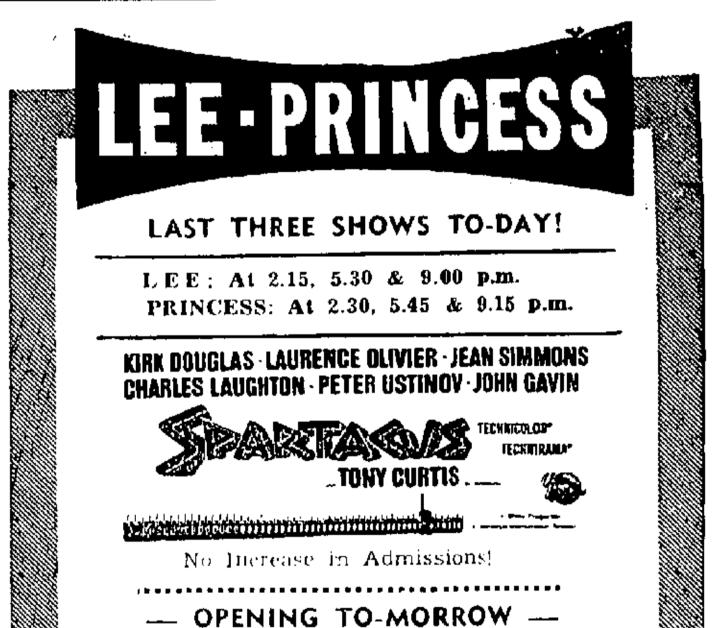

"These are the true dances of Senegal " a Granada op kes man said, "We are presenting these artists as they have been and many raintries throughout the world, and most recently in Lincon. We do not think their snow is effensive."

Westerns

Four other independent television companies, the Southern, Tyne-Tees, Scottish and Gramplan, didn't agree They are substituting western movies in place of the African per-

"We do not think these dances are suitable for family viewing," said W. Lyon Shaw, Tyne-Tees programme controller "Some of the dances are erotic and the women are almost nude."

"CAMERA!" shouted director H. H. Lee, the Cecil B. de Mille of the Orient, in whom Shaw's have invested over $3,000,000 for three films only.

So the spools started to whir on another million-dollar production at the studios in Clearwater Bay.

It was up to Lee to either multiply the $3,000,000 in terms of box-office or lose them in the form of canned negatives:

Of course, along with big films go big stacs, big names, big money, big sets, big cast and big budgeting.

But isn't there a shadow of big financial risk? To H. H. Lee who is used to blg film directing, there is no such worry.

Thrice, Lee walked away with honours from the Asian Film Festivals. Twice he won the awards for best direction—first with "Diau Charn" at the Fifth Festival in 1958 then with "The Kingdom and the Beauty" at the Sixth Festival in 1959.

THE sudden growth of Hongkong as an airport was mentioned by Mr M H Curtis, Traffic Manager of the Hongkong office of Imperial Airways, in a radio talk over Z. B. W. last night, when he detailed some of the aspects of the organisation of Empire air services.

Today, said Mr Curus, there were 14 arrivals and departures each week in Hongkong of aircraft operating regular commercial schedules, and as this nomber would undoubtedly increase the future of the Colony as one of the most important air junclions in the world was assured. yet a short while ago, it seemed doubtful whether Hongkong would achieve this importance.
